The Fahrenheit Global Difference

Here at Fahrenheit Global we have a vision to make the world a safer place. The company began providing fire engineering services to safeguard properties and their occupants back in 2002. Since then our motto to always “do the right thing” has held strong in all the works carried out by the Fahrenheit Global team.

With close to 20 years of industry experience, our team of registered Fire Engineers and private Fire Investigators ensure delivery of our work with minimum fuss each time. Our goal is to provide our clients with suitable access consultancy services, upgrades, checks and investigation services as they require them with our philosophy “to do the right thing” at the core of our business.

Having worked on a range of significant projects across the globe, our experience, expertise, proactive attitude as well as attention to detail allows us to provide a first-class spectrum of accessibility services.

We endeavor to always uphold our core values which focus on accountability, innovation, delivering high-quality work and putting our client’s needs first. These are the values that make Fahrenheit Global the business it is today.

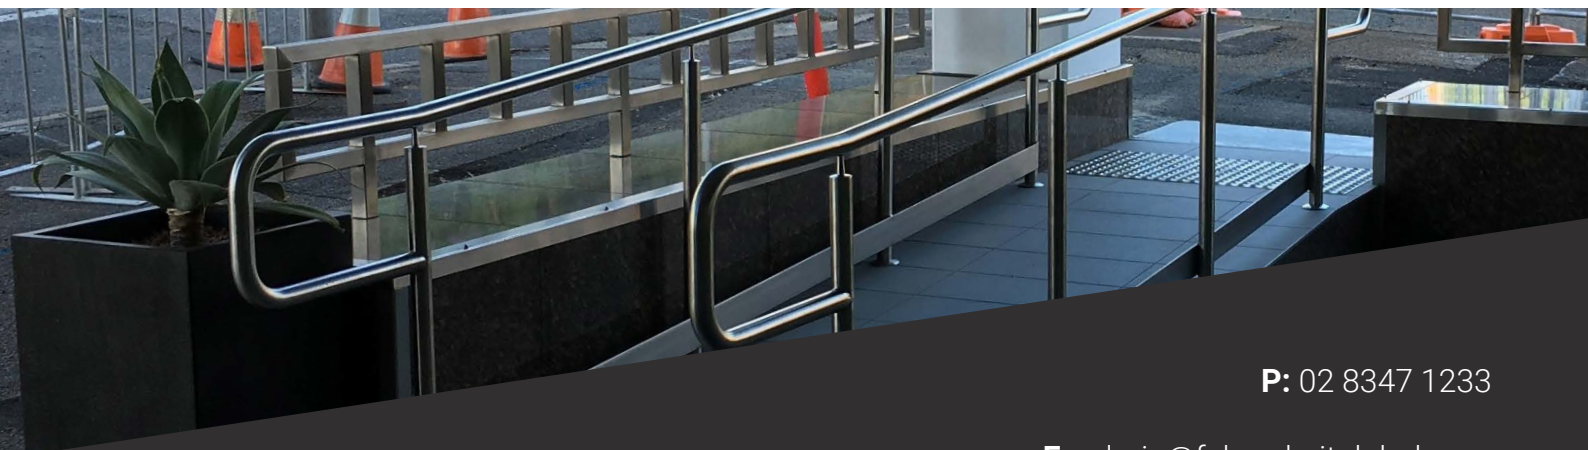

Our Accessibility services allow us to assist in the creation of a friendly built environment

Our accessibility advice services allow us to assist in the design of a friendly built environment. With 1 in 5 Australians, having some kind of disability, the building standards are increasing to ensure there is adequate and fair access for all.

Our goal is to help you at the design stage of your new building with the assistance of our Access Consultancy Services. We also provide audits and appraisals to existing buildings to thoroughly assess their accessibility for all. These specific assessments are carried out by our qualified Access Consultants who are solutions focused experts in their field.

Our services are required when clients seek council approval, and to comply with various legislations and duty of care. Our goal is to identify the problems and provide you with solutions to bring your built environment up to codes and standards.
